

The best hunting hearing protector ever – now available in a long-awaited color

Supreme Pro-X EMBER

Supreme Pro-X protects you from hazardous noise, while picking up harmless ambient sound with perfect clarity. The ambient sound is detected by microphones mounted on the outside of each cup and reproduced using speakers inside the cups. You can communicate face-to-face with people without removing your hearing protector – even with shooting going on around you.

Supreme sound

Supreme Pro-X comes with an advanced new sound profile that offers excellent audio reproduction – allowing you to locate your prey quickly and accurately. The ambient sound is reproduced so naturally, it's easy to forget you're even wearing a hearing protector. Also, the decay time is very short, immediately restoring your sound image to normal after a shot.

Supreme quality

Originally designed for military use, Supreme represents the ultimate in robustness. Over the years, we have continued to refine this flagship product range in close cooperation with Swedish hunters. The most durable design paired with the most refined modern electronics – that's what truly sets Supreme apart.

Supreme variety

With the addition of the intense Ember cup color, the Supreme Pro-X family is now a full hand of exquisite, state-of-the-art hearing protectors. Select your favorite combination of cup color and head band design and material (textile or leather) to match your specific hunting requirements – or simply your personal taste!
